LAS VEGAS, N. M., TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 4, 1879.

NO 86.

Las Vegas Daily Gazette

J. H. KOGLER, Editor.

This is the great day for which all other days were made—the day of the November elections.

Lord Cornwallis, who surrendered to General Washington at Yorktown, has but one surviving relative living—Lady Halesdale.

It is claimed that a California horse, St. Julian, trotted a mile in 2:12, which is good time, if he really did it, without any help from the time keepers.

One advantage in taking homesteads is, that they are not subject to a tax of any kind until final proof is made, which need not be for seven years from the time of entry.

The people of Illinois contributed 675 dollars to aid the colored people who came from the South to Kansas, last summer, and now Chicago proposes to spend 50,000 dollars in entertaining Grant.

A New York dentist put arsenic in the tooth of a patient to cure the nerve and did it so effectually that the man died. Now they are talking of indicating the dentist for not knowing his business better.

The Philadelphia Times, in its series of articles on the war, speaks of the Red River expedition under Gen. Banks, as "a military failure; but a successful cotton speculation," which appears to be about correct.

A will, written in Chinese, has been filed for probate in the office of the surrogate of New York. Pretty much all the languages used on the globe are represented in that office; but this will is the first of its kind.

The Colorado office hunters who rushed up to Cheyenne to see Grant are very much disgusted with the way in which the governor of Wyoming managed the reception, so as to keep the general out of their clutches.

The great East river bridge enterprise, to connect New York and Brooklyn, has already cost 11,973,850 dollars and the trustees want 1,700,000 dollars more to complete it, which they think they can do in 18 months. Nearly thirteen millions of dollars is a good deal to expend on a matter of convenience.

During the first part of the Apache raids the people of this Territory were assured that Uncle Sam had no soldiers to spare; the last congress had killed the army; but when the war broke out in Colorado, there was no trouble in finding some three or four thousand soldiers to protect the citizens of that State.

It is now reported that the Apache outbreak was caused by Victoria hearing that he had been indicted in the Grant county court. Concluding that for him war was safer than peace he started out, with what result is known to the readers of the GAZETTE. In that, as in all other cases, it would have been better to have acted first and threatened afterwards.

The Colorado papers appear to be determined that peace shall not be made until the Indians are driven from their reservation. The Leadville Herald says: "It is not improbable that two thousand men will be in the reservation before the close of another season. The effect of this immigration upon the Ute problem is not difficult to foresee. If mineral is found in paying quantities the Utes must go."

Some surprise is expressed that the workmen in the east are striking for higher wages. The explanation is easy: The price of bread and meat has gone up, so that they must have some more pay; but no one ever heard of a corporation increasing the pay of its employees without a battle. The operatives are compelled to strike to get wages sufficient to provide the necessities of life and are then denounced as strikers.

A Trick to Check Stock Gambling.

Washington, Oct. 30.—Concerning the announcement made in to-day's New York evening papers to the effect that Controller Knox has written a letter to Meigs' National Bank Examiner, pointing out that the national bank act forbids national banks to certify checks in excess of the amount to the credit of the drawer of the check, and that the department must and will see that the law is respected and obeyed, the former says he does not intend to make public the full text of his letter until he has consulted with Sec'y. Sherman. Controller Knox says his attention has not been called to the matter, as has been reported, but that he had been observing the course of affairs for some time past, with a view to ending the practice. It is the intention, by a rigid enforcement of the law, to reduce to a minimum the undue facilities for stock gambling which have been growing up under this system of certification.

San Francisco, Oct. 31.—The grand jury have found a true bill of assault to murder against Charles DeYoung, of the Chronicle, based on his assault upon Rev. J. S. Killoch.

New Bank.

To facilitate the large and growing business of East Las Vegas, Messrs. Reynolds Bros. Bankers, have about perfected arrangements for the establishment of a bank there, which, it is hoped, will be opened for business at an early day. Mr. Reynolds, we learn, will arrive in a few days when, it is thought, the details will be completed. It will be a great convenience to the business men of the east side.

The wool market continues strong and active and every lot is sold as soon as it is put on the market, at full prices. One or two of the buyers have left town, as they considered the prices paid too high for them. Mr. Nichols, buying for a Boston house, has left Saturday night, as the climate did not agree with him.

Mr. Krille has gone to Trinidad to spend a few days. Mr. K. had a lot of wool ready to ship to Philadelphia, but received so tempting an offer from Mr. Ogden, buying for Mellor & Co., Philadelphia, that he sold it here, rather than take chances of shipment.

Isaiah C. Wears, of Philadelphia, who properly ranks as one of the leading colored men of the United States, is bitterly opposed to the colored exodus from the south and declares that while it can do no good for the negro, it is just what their old masters desire. If they are to be the objects of charity, they should not come, and if they have means, they should stay where they made their money. Mr. Wears appears to know what he is talking about.

Lord Hartington, a leader of the Liberal party in England, in a recent speech said, "The conclusion which I derive from these considerations is, that England is less fitted by her position and nature of her resources than any other power for the policy of military administration. The prime minister spoke the truth when he said that the resources of England were so great that, if she went to war, she would not have to consider whether she would maintain war for one or for three campaigns; that I believe to be true; but it is also true that England is less prepared than any other power for the first campaign, and no minister ought to threaten war or go to war unless he asks himself the question, whether the cause is so obvious and just in the eyes of the whole people that they will be ready to make those long, those continued, those protracted sacrifices which would be necessary for a prosecution of war for one or for three campaigns or for five campaigns, nor does it follow from these opinions that the policy of England ought to be one of selfish and timid isolation." From the above it will be seen that England is more dangerous to her enemies in a long war than in a single campaign.

Typhoid fever has ravaged the Arkansas valley during the past season.
